ABSTRACT

Siti Anugrah Muharomah. 181230010. 2018. An Analysis of Figurative Language in Song Materials in English Textbooks.

This research analysis of figurative language in songs. This research aimed to identify of figurative language in song materials in English Textbooks, find types and meaning of figurative language in song material in English Textbooks and disclose the dominant types of figurative language that used in those songs. This research used qualitative descriptive. The data were obtained from book of Ministry of Education and Culture of the Republic of Indonesia based on 2013 curriculum. Title of song they are, You've Got a Friend by Carole King , Heal The World by Michael Jackson, Hero by Mariah Carey, We Shall Overcome by Pete Seeger, and Stand By Me by Ben E King. By using figurative language theory of Perrine, the researcher observed the song lyric and took the sentences that contained figurative language. There are the meanings of those figurative language found in song materials in English Textbooks such as; hyperbole, personification, metaphor, metonymy, and euphemism. I can know from analysis of figurative language which used in lyrics of song materials in English Textbooks selected songs is "Hyperbole" that has to produce images in reader or listener mind and to explain ideas, emotions, and images in a more efficient way than through plain language. In addition, the author also used hyperbole to frame the idea and give context in order to allow the reader or listener to better understand what the author intends. There are 24 data that have found, 12 data of hyperbole, 4 data of personification, 1 data of metaphor, 1 data of metonymy, and 1 data of euphemism. It can be conclude that the dominant types of figurative language in those songs is hyperbole.
