

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusion

Referring to the first research question, Parents agreed that children were considered better at learning English than adults at learning English as a foreign language, children in the pre-operational stage of elementary school would learn English easily. Parents also have several reasons for letting their children learn English in this era of globalization. Learning English in the era of globalization is important because it is a skill that supports the future and English is an international language that will make it easier to communicate with foreigners and achieve success. By learning English from an early age, children can achieve success in the field of international business because advances in the digital world in the current era of globalization make it easier to access all kinds of information from all over the world. Thus, English is the most popular language to learn and English is one of the competencies needed to achieve the era of globalization.

Referring to the second research question, parents play a role in providing facilities for children to learn English as a form of parental support for their children. Parents are obliged to guide and motivate children to start learning languages from an early age because children whose parents have very high learning motivation can progress more quickly in learning English. The role of parents is very important to help and form high enthusiasm. With great motivation from their parents, children will be motivated in their learning so that children will be enthusiastic about learning and will ultimately obtain satisfactory results.

B. Suggestion

1. The parents

Parents can start introducing English to their children from an early age because this has many advantages. Parents can also carry out various activities to support and motivate children in learning English. There are many benefits that children will get when they learn English in this era of globalization. The importance of learning English in the era of globalization gives children many opportunities for success in the future.

2. Further Researcher

This research only focuses on parents' perceptions of English language learning in the era of globalization. It is recommended for future researchers to focus on children's learning media in learning English. It is important to know how to learn English effectively for children.
