CONCLUSIONS AND SUGGESTIONS

A. Conclusions

After conducting this research, the researcher can conclude the process of English teaching and learning for young learners. The result of the research showed that the English teacher at SD.AI- Azhar Cilegon teach young learners so good. He is able to manage young learners well, recognize the class well, and able make the condition of class alive. The teacher always prepared the material, media, method and strategy to teaching which related to the students' level.

The teacher always used the media in teaching English for young learners, like: picture, video, songs, flashcard and game. This is appropriate with the students' level especially in teaching English for young learners because they are teach English with fun way. As we know the characteristics of young learners are limited attentions, concentrations spans, easily to get bored, and lost interest. Therefore, the teacher can used the media to attract their attention, to make the students happy in the classroom and to make the students interesting with the material being taught. The media can help the students easier to understand and help the teachers too to deliver the material to young learners.

The most important for teaching English to young learners are when the teacher explain the material to the students, the teacher can used student's experience or the students themselves, reality and associate the students into the example or story. Not just by demonstration and expression. The teacher should play in two roles, because young learners need guidance, support, and counselor. And the last repetition.

Do not forget to talk loud enough, clear, used the simple language, and interesting intonation. The teacher of SD. Al- Azhar Cilegon there is no obstacles in teaching English for young learners because the teacher able to manage them and able to control his students. The students also can take a lesson well, pay attention to the teacher, and not noisy in the class during teaching and learning process.
