

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusion

From the very start before using this AR in writing, the researcher has been so much confident on this AR. It is because the passionate of technology that the researcher has since then. It is come to an idea to combine technology and also education as the researcher last gift on the last assignment on college era. Actually, this research is not only the last assignment for taking the bachelor degree, but more than the representative of the researcher passion. Getting so much confident, the corona virus takes it down as the researcher is not available to be in the classroom to use the AR directly to the student. To use AR directly it is going to be so much effective than use it in online ways as the researcher did on this research.

On this conclusion part, the researcher loves to conclude every single part of this research with a lovely part that the researcher think it is wonderful. Starting from the definition on the AR itself, one of the definition of AR is displaying information by using virtual things that the user cannot directly detect with his own senses can enable a person to interact with the real world in ways never before possible. Have you ever imagined the day when our lives full of only the virtual thing. The potential here as the media of a virtual that the researcher so much confident. Thus, the researcher should find a way how to present and also to introduce this to the student in school due to the current situation. So on this case the researcher struggled to have such a media to be link up with this AR, finally it is answered and the application called Metaverse as a platform of the AR has been chosen by the researcher to promote an AR to the student in this pandemic situation. To make it clear, here are some of the conclusions by using an AR as one the media in teaching writing also in addition as a media in learning online.

1. The Application of AR in Teaching Writing

This is presumbaly one of the most important thing to be highlighted. On this AR the student witnessed they are so joy and even just like watching a cartoon movie as one of the student stated. This is very important to make the student feel as enjoyable as possible. The more enjoyable the student, not feeling depressed then the result will be better, it is what the psychology has been discovered. In terms of the writing, as writing is not such a simple thing it is so much important to keep their mind in clear to dig up their ideas deepen. Mostly happened to the student is because they limit their mind before they write something. The plug they put on their mind is one of the impact of thinking so much writing is hard for them.

So, giving some exposures of the ideas in using AR is effective for the student. Because they are feeling enjoy with the media and relax that does not have so much pressure on the writing itself.

2. The Student Review On AR as the Media in Writing

Review of the writing is one of the objectives of this writing. And it can be concluded as a successful media in this term. The way the respondent responds the question is massively wonderful. Almost the students are happy and enjoy the AR as their writing media. After using an AR it can be seen perfectly on the result of the test. further talking, on this case, precisely the respondent has been asked to write an analytical exposition, which it needs a critical thinking, the content creation, the structured in writing, and soon. On this particular thing, the researcher has been questioned the respondent all of that parts of writing analytical exposition.

3. The Accessibility of The AR In Terms of Media Study From Home

The accessibility has two parts of the explanation. This is giving a good impact on them that has the meets criteria of facilitation that the AR needs, but vice versa. Because the researcher has been finding the satisfaction on them who have a good signal and also the minimum requirement of the AR. Then it is also happened crushed to them that has not reach the minimum requirement of using the AR.

The last but not least, on this research there are two possibility that this AR is succeed to make the writing of the student improve. The first, it is because the test before and after using this AR is massively improve and the second one, the student responds on this AR mostly positive.

B. Suggestion

On this section, the researcher takes a hand what the result on this research is, then try to give it in the related objectivity, especially in terms of the writing. As it has been stated in the significancy in the part one, it is hoped to give an impact on two parts; practical and also theoretical.

First to the teacher, personally the researcher would love to say that the way we treat the student is the way of them give as the answer. Means, there are still some students still has to be forced to understand the material well, especially in terms of the writing. On this case, there are possibility it is because we the teacher are not able to give them any proper understanding related to the material. Not to mentioned or push the teacher here, but be a good teacher and also an innovative teacher would so much better. This AR is presumably giving the teacher to be innovative, because the content we create it is of course need the creative thinking to make it interesting. Furthermore, it gives so much room for the student to deep their ideas through the animation is being given. Probably it was the first suggestion to deliver on to the teacher.

For the student, this AR is so close with them in common mainstream social media. Try to look for what AR is and the basic concept on this AR is enough to make them one step forward in terms of the technology and also the educational field as well.

The last for practical suggestion is going to the school, there are so many schools in abroad that has been using this AR in their education laboratory, just say as monasch tech school in Australia. The researcher personally really beg the school or the related one to be more advanced in combining the technology and also the education. Because both just like a shield and also a sword that we can use to fight for the better life in the future.

The suggestion for the theortical aspects it seems that the research is hoped can be one of the discourse analysis in many different of subjects remind this AR is a technology, which technology now is commonly include and have a roll in daily life.

