

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusion

This study examines the figurative language and its types contained in the song A Whole New World which is very popular lately. Figurative language is widely used in literary works, where the meaning of figurative language itself is the language used to express objects in an unusual way and different from the literal meaning. Based on the results of the analysis, five types of figurative language were found including hyperbole, alliteration, metaphor, simile and personification. However, one type of figurative language that is dominantly used from all types of figurative language is metaphor. Metaphor is a figure of speech of compare or similar something with something else. Thus, it can be concluded that the song writer tries to convince listeners and readers that the world is beautiful by inserting many lines of metaphorical lyrics.

To improve understanding of a written work, it is necessary to understand the meaning contextually as this research also examines the contextual meaning of each lyric that contains figurative language. In general, the contextual meaning in the lyrics of this song is about Aladdin offering Princess Jasmine that Aladdin can show to her the outside world by riding his magic carpet. On their journey using the magic carpet with up and down journey, Princess Jasmine felt like a shooting star and was surprised to see all the details of the beautiful world she had never seen how sparkling and amazing the world was. The contextual meanings that are reviewed based on the visuals of the film are presented in the results of this study. It is hoped that the listeners of the song can increase their knowledge and good understanding of the meaning of the song, especially this song.

B. Suggestion

The researcher would like to give suggestion that might be useful to everyone who reads this research. Analyzing activities are not easy, especially in analyzing literary works in studying figurative language in songs. That's because in researching not only looking for lyrics that belong to figurative language, but also finding the original meaning. Therefore, song lovers, especially foreign language songs, must get used to finding the meaning that the songwriter wants to convey to the listeners. This can be done by finding out the lyrics and understanding the linguistic elements, then try to equate the meaning of the lyrics with the music video, so that the meaning of the lyrics is appropriate with the context.

In addition, there are many benefits in learning figurative language not only to improve vocabulary and phrase composition but also to build imagination and strengthen the sense that the author gives in his literary works. Therefore, it is important to learn linguistic rules, especially figurative language that is often found in literary works and speeches.
