Dear Prof. Saleha S. Mahmood,

I am Yanwar Pribadi, Assistant Professor at State Islamic University (UIN) Sultan Maulana Hasanuddin Banten, Indonesia.

I have a PhD from Leiden University. I am the author of Islam, State and Society in Indonesia : Local Politics in Madura (Routledge, 2018).

I conducted ethnographic fieldwork in towns in Germany and Indonesia in 2019 and 2020, researching the special branch of the Nahdlatul Ulama (the NU), Indonesia's largest Muslim organization with forty to fifty million followers, in Germany (PCI NU Germany). This article is the result of the research.

With this email, I would like to submit my article to Journal of Muslim Minority Affairs. It is my expectation that my article will be accepted and published by the journal.

With best wishes,
Yanwar

PS: This is the abstract of the article:

This article discusses Indonesia's largest Muslim organization, the Nahdlatul Ulama (the NU), in campaigning Islam Nusantara, the NU's version of moderate Islam, and enacting religious agency in Germany. The NU has expanded its networks by establishing special branches (PCI NU) across the globe. In Germany, the special branch was established in 2011. This special branch was established and initially organized by students. In a later phase, many Indonesians who have long resided in the country also joined and influenced the organization. Based on ethnographic fieldwork in Germany, this paper investigates the organizational projects and religious practices of the NU through which cross-border networks are managed. It observes the organization's religious activities and the campaign of Indonesian Islam that influence the reconstruction of the NU people's dual identities as Indonesian Muslims and European residents. My analysis of the results of in-depth interviews, casual chats, and hang-outs in the organization's meetings and gatherings shows that PCI NU Germany is extending its transnational networks, claiming its religious agency, and strengthening its version of moderate Islam overseas in an effort to make its voices heard within Islamic communities and broader public in the host country and maintain socio-religious connections with the home country.

Dear Ms. Sanaa Pirani,

Is there any update about my article (the last time I contacted you was on 9 October 2021)? I mean is it now under review? Or is it still waiting to be sent to reviewers?

If the answer is 'it is still under review', when do you think it will be sent to me (to get revised)? If the answer is 'it is still waiting to be sent to reviewers', I would like to withdraw the paper.

With best wishes,
Yanwar

Haven't registered for your Authored Works yet? Find out how.

Have you used your free eprints yet?

Now you're published, you'll hopefully want to share your article with friends or colleagues. Every author at Routledge (including all co-authors) gets 50 free online copies of their article to share with their networks. Your eprint link is now ready to use and is:

<https://www.tandfonline.com/eprint/15VXFA46VCUPUFGWTPVH/full?target=10.1080/13602004.2022.2064056>

You can share this any way you want, and author feedback tells us this is a highly effective way of highlighting your research. Using this link also means we can track your article's downloads and citations, so you can measure its impact. Find out more about sharing your work, and how you can work with us to highlight your article.

If you have any problems accessing your Taylor & Francis Online account, or using your eprints, please contact us.
