B. Suggestions

Maybe this thesis had some similarity by the title, but the result is really different, because of this case, researcher suggests to reader, find any other thesis for every reference, because in this world, reference is not only one.

And researcher suggest, try to paraphrase what reader get from the reference, because even it all had a little similarity, there is some different of it, and do not forget to thanks some creator or researcher who you cite for your reference, because is not easy to make thesis, journal, the book, and many others.
